Of those reported, only a very small number have been run down and the property recovered or arrests made. The heads of the Department resize the inadequacy of the present force in point of numbers to properly cope with the waves of crime that from time to time sweep not only over this city, but the whole country, and a strong effort will be made before the close of the present year to increase the membership of the force by nearly 200. at present school a into of the force is withdrawn from patrol duty and detailed on special work, such as the Executiv Mansion, local government departments, etc. This leaves considerably less than 400 men to patrol 73 square miles of territory and furnish police protection to 270,000 people. PROPERTY NOT RECOVERED.

But especially is the inadequacy of the present fonce shown in the vast number of robberies reported to police headquarters daily, and of the inability of the police in most cases to recover the property and make arrests. Within the past four weeks twenty cases of homebreaking in the night and 142 larceny acses have been reported at headquarters and emered on the books. As soon as a larceny case, even of the most triting nature, is reported, a detective is assigned to investigate it, but with only about eight headquarters' men on ac-tive outside duty, it is very difficult for tention it requires.
